Announcement 40-hour Mediation Training Course

We are pleased to announce existing HKMC's 40-hour Mediation Training Courses have been accredited by the HKMAAL, and that the HKMAAL is in operation from 2 April 2013.

Current 40-hour mediation training course content and structure will remain unchanged and HKMC will provide timely update on new accreditation requirements and guidelines once formulated by the HKMAAL.

Graduates from previous 40-hour mediation training courses organized or co-organized by the Hong Kong Mediation Centre ("HKMC") and have not been accredited by the HKMC may apply directly to the HKMAAL for accreditation assessment. Further details can be followed on their web site under "How to become a mediator> General Mediator" - http://www.hkmaal.org.hk/HowToBecomeAMediator_G.php.

As a founder member of the HKMAAL, HKMC has representatives working in each of her working committees to align the best practices on the accreditation, CPD and related matters. We are also committed to continuous improvements in the quality of mediation training. Should there be any inquiry about the subject, please write to us at training@mediationcentre.org.hk

Yours sincerely,

Jango Chan
President
